SHOP CREATES ONE-OF-A-KIND FURNITURE FOR DESIGNERS, HOMEOWNERS

ALEDO, Texas — April 15, 2010 — Creating unique household furniture has always been a passion for Little Jack Horner's. With a 20-year-old business and employees with even more experience, the full-service furniture restoration shop can recondition the most worn antique furniture and also produce unique items that can be passed on to future generations.

Through the years, Little Jack Horner's has restored everything from Sam Houston's pier mirror to hand-woven wicker car seats. As the demand for fine handcrafted furniture has increased, Little Jack Horner's has grown and incorporated those services into its shop. With this, a customer can bring in their vision for an item, and the experts will make that dream a reality. This assures that any piece created at Little Jack Horner's will truly be one-of-a-kind.

Though the shop has grown over the years, the philosophy of Little Jack Horner's has always been and will remain the same: they are a family owned and operated business that focuses on relationship-centered customer service.

In addition to handcrafting heirloom furniture, Little Jack Horner's offers an assortment of services for antique, vintage and modern furniture including detailed restoration, refinishing, repairs, mirror re-silvering and chair caning.

Owner Joe Hornor has been mastering his craft since the age of eight. At first, restoration was simply a hobby that he shared with family and friends. After numerous referrals, Joe's passion became a business. In 1990, Joe and his wife Vivian—a fifth-generation Texan—opened Little Jack Horner's.
